Network Society Research Lab
Mini-Workshop

Financial Inclusion & Poverty Reduction

The Network Society Research Lab analyzes big data to study the global interdependence of the flows of goods, money, and people. Using network science, we unravel the various problems facing modern society across a wide range of fields, such as finance/economics, immigration, and energy.

An estimated 2 billion adults remain excluded from formal financial systems, including savings, payments, credit, and insurance. In this workshop, we will present on existing barriers to financial inclusion. Participants will then be invited to join a discussion on how to make financial products and services more accessible to economically vulnerable populations.
